

Thank you for your interest in our advanced education programs. We offer six advanced education programs. All advanced education programs are accredited by the Commission of Dental Accreditation of the American Dental Association and are board-eligible programs for the respective specialty boards except the Restorative Fellowship.

The programs in endodontics, orthodontics, and periodontics are master's degree programs (M.S.D.) with a certificate granted upon completion of the degree requirements. Foreign trained applicants are accepted into the programs offered by the departments of endodontics, orthodontics, and periodontics. Additionally, foreign trained dentists are eligible for the master's program in pediatric dentistry.

The residency program in advanced education in general dentistry is a certificate-only program.

The residency program in pediatric dentistry is a certificate program with an option to pursue a master's degree.

The residency program in oral and maxillofacial surgery is a joint program with the School of Medicine leading to the M.D. degree and certificate in oral and maxillofacial surgery. A certificate-only program in oral surgery may be available at the discretion of the department.

Applicants selected for residency programs in Oral & Maxillofacial Surgery or Pediatric Dentistry MUST be U.S. citizens or permanent residents. Applicants selected for residency programs in Advanced General Dentistry, Oral & Maxillofacial Surgery, or Pediatric Dentistry, must be eligible for licensure or intern certificate issued by the State of Ohio, and must be a graduate of a dental school accredited by the Commission on Dental Accreditation of the American Dental Association.

Dear Applicant:

Thank you for your interest in the Case School of Dental Medicine advanced education program in Periodontology. Enclosed is an informational packet about our Periodontics program.

This program is a thirty-six month, continuous course of study leading to the Master of Science in Dentistry degree. It is fully accredited by the Council on Dental Accreditation and meets all clinical and didactic requirements of the American Board of Periodontology.

The general goals of the program are to train expert clinicians in this specialty, and/or to prepare individuals for an academic (research/teaching) career in periodontics.

There are many applicants for this program. Factors which enter into applicant choice are: the applicant's grades, both dental and pre-dental; the applicant's standing in his/her dental school class; post-dental school clinical experience; awards received; reference letters and research experience (see the attached "Criteria for Selection of Graduate Students").

Please feel free to contact me if you have unanswered questions after reading the enclosed material. If Case School of Dental Medicine meets your needs, complete the enclosed application materials and return them to the Office of Graduate Studies.

Applications are considered on a rolling basis beginning July 1 (for the class entering the following July) through October 1. Applicants are encouraged to apply early.

Sincerely,

Nabil F. Bissada, D.D.S.,M.S.D.
Professor and Chairman, Department of Periodontics
Director, Advanced Specialty Education in Periodontology

Application Guidelines

The number of positions available in the program is limited. Therefore, selection of trainees is highly competitive and the decision on an application is final. An application which is not approved may be reactivated, in writing, by the applicant for the following year.

- Completed applications from qualified individuals holding the D.D.S. or equivalent degree from fully accredited universities will be evaluated.
- The applicant should possess a good record of scholastic achievement that would give promise of successfully completing the course of study (e.g. "B" average or ranking in the upper third of his/her class).
- Applicants may be asked to appear for a personal interview, when time and/or distance do not exceed practical limits. This decision will be made after the completed application is reviewed by the program director.

The following information included in the application packet will be required from all applicants:

- Application form and application fee.
- Letters of recommendation using the enclosed forms. Example: from two periodontists, one dentist, and from one individual outside of the health professions.
- Certified official transcripts of all academic performance beyond the high school (or its equivalent) level. Transcripts should be mailed by the school registrar to the Case School of Dental Medicine Office of Graduate Studies.
- A curriculum vitae, completed according to the standard form enclosed with these guidelines.

Direct all correspondence (e.g., transcripts, letters of recommendation etc.) to:

Case School of Dental Medicine
Office of Graduate Studies
10900 Euclid Avenue
Cleveland, OH 44106-4905

Criteria for Selection of Residents

Since the intensity of the program requires a considerable expenditure of time and effort by the resident, extra-curricular employment is discouraged. Consequently, the ability of the applicant to meet the financial obligations of the University is an important consideration for acceptance. All applicants are evaluated equally on the basis of their application. No discrimination is made regarding sex or racial background.

In addition to the following criteria, foreign students will be required to demonstrate proficiency in English communication based on performance on the TOEFL test.

- Class standing and grade point average (upper one-third of dental school graduating class, 3.0 overall GPA on a 4 point scale)
- At least three letters of recommendation (one from a periodontics instructor, others from the dean or other faculty of the student's dental school who have had contact with the student)
- Personal interview (The applicant will be evaluated for maturity, attitude, ability to communicate, and overall motivation for pursuing graduate training. It is the desire of the faculty to become more personally acquainted with the applicant at this time.)
- Postgraduate dental experience (general practice residencies, military and/or private practice, other postgraduate dental education, graduate education in the basic sciences)

Information on Advanced Specialty Training in Periodontology

This graduate program offers broad clinical experience in periodontics and research training in periodontology leading to the Master of Science in Dentistry degree. Completion of a Master's thesis is a requirement of the program. Limited teaching experience is offered to the graduate student so that his/her exposure to clinical, research, and teaching aspects of periodontics is complete.

All of the faculty of the Department of Periodontics involved in teaching graduate students in this program are board qualified periodontists. Additional instruction is scheduled within this program by outstanding faculty members of the School of Dental Medicine and the School of Medicine. The periodontists teaching in this program were graduated from a wide variety of training programs. Consequently, the graduate student is exposed to a cosmopolitan view of diagnosis, prevention, and treatment of periodontal diseases. Both clinical and basic sciences are taught with very favorable teacher-student ratios.

New classes of three graduate students begin in July each year. A brief initial review of basic aspects of periodontology introduces the new graduate student to the specialty training during the summer session. Extensive contact with practicing periodontists, sufficient exposure to hospital periodontal practice, and clinical training in dental implants are additional features of this program.

Courses for students interested in advanced training in periodontics include advanced periodontics seminars, periodontic literature review, periodontic conferences, clinical periodontology, implantology, periodontal prosthesis, conscious sedation, biological aspects of the stomatological system, correlative medical science, introduction to research methods, oral pathology, microbiology, behavioral considerations in oral health care, management of medical emergencies, head and neck anatomy, interdisciplinary research seminar and case presentations, epidemiology and biostatistics, pharmacology, and hospital rotation.

These courses are described in more detail in the University Bulletin.

It is recommended that applicants for this program have completed at least one year of relevant postdoctoral experience, e.g., hospital internship, research traineeship, private practice, military practice, etc.

At any time after completion of the application, the applicant may wish to arrange for a personal interview with the director of the program in graduate periodontology. Although this is not a requirement, it is highly desirable for the applicant and for the faculty considering his/her application.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT INFORMATION

A letter of "proof of support" must be submitted when a student is accepted into a program. There is no financial aid given to international students enrolled in the endodontics, orthodontics or periodontics programs. Applicants must establish that they have available financial resources sufficient to complete the program uninterrupted. All on-campus work-study employment for international students must be cleared by the individual program director and the University Office of International Students.

Applicants graduated from a non-English speaking dental school, and for whom English is not their first language, must take the TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language) with a minimum score of 550 (paper-based score) or 213 (computer-based score). An official or certified copy of your scores must be sent to our office at the following address:

Office of Graduate Studies
Case School of Dental Medicine
10900 Euclid Avenue
Cleveland, OH 44106-4905 USA

Generally the TOEFL is administered five times during the year in September, December, February, April, and June. If you plan to take TOEFL and do not have information on a location for your country, you can visit the TOEFL web site at: <http://www.toefl.org>.

The TOEFL identification number for Case Western Reserve University is: 1105
The departmental code number is: 38
